

Book Review by Mr. Fred H. Sands

I have read "America's Financial Reckoning Day" and I highly recommend it! In its pages one can finally learn why our once-great nation is now in such a noticeable decline, and how the nation-destroying economic and monetary policies of a small group of powerful men controlling our government have brought about that decline. Mr. Coppes does a superb job of showing that both our dollar and all dollar-denominated investments are dangerously close to collapsing and [he] provides specific alternative investment suggestions for those seeking to preserve their money. Most importantly, the author clearly spells out how all that is happening in the world today - especially an organized move towards a totalitarian world government - is clearly predicted in Bible prophecy. What really sets this financial book apart from others is the GOOD news the author offers. After presenting much sobering economic information and a way to protect ones assets, Mr. Coppes provides the best news of all! He tells us clearly how we can have inner peace and hope for the future in spite of what may happen financially and how we can each be spiritually prepared for the future. This alone is worth the price of the book!
