

Book Review by Pastor M. J. Gowon

Charles Coppes' excellent book America's Financial Reckoning Day is calculated to offer hope and direction concerning the coming financial/economic earthquake, which must happen shortly. Over the years, the world has experienced the rise and fall of empires and now there seems to be glaring stress fractures that are signaling a major shift in world power. Once Britain dominated the globe as a super power. But the sunset on the British Empire and history brought America to the corridor of global dominance in all spheres. I am very proud of [this book] because Mr. Coppes has very diligently articulated this body of truth based on the word of God and verifiable realities. I read this book with excitement and awe....The work is well researched, with very elaborate references from other works of great brains and I recommend it to every American and every Christian around the globe interested in discovering the truth about the prophetic unfoldings of the end times. Mr. Coppes has performed an amazing feat. His powerful story telling blended with deep theological and historical backing and current happenings have been painted in simple language for all to understand. It is a must read for every 21st century pastor who wants to teach and inspire his membership about the eminent global instability and the last day's agenda of the Most High God.
